

New Website Solution Helps Businesses Manage Web Content With Ease While Lowering Costs

Edit On Site™ is a new total website solution. Its technology significantly lowers the up-front investment required for website design/development and eliminates future website maintenance fees. Key features include the freedom to manage your website content with ease, no license fees, seo friendly tools and a modular feature set to add functionality to your website.

Indianapolis, IN (PRWeb) November 9, 2007 -- Narrow Gate Media, an Indianapolis web design / web marketing firm has recently released Edit On Site™ - a new website solution that utilizes .Net CMS (content management system) technology. This technology allows Narrow Gate Media to provide clients with a professional, custom developed website, with more functionality then that of a traditional websites, for a fraction of the price.

Steve Young, president of Midwest Capital Corporation said, "We chose Edit On Site because of the ease and flexibility it offered." "Edit On Site allows us to stay up-to-the-minute with any changes to our industry, products or programs." "Prior to switching to Edit On Site we had absolutely no flexibility." Every time I needed a change or an update to my website it cost me money. Consequently our old website became outdated - quickly. Now with the flexibility of Edit On Site, as our company grows and expands, so does our website. In business, you can't put a price tag on flexibility. "With Edit On Site, the only limitations we have are our own imaginations." "I would highly recommend Edit On Site."

"The Edit On Site website solution is ideal for corporations, associations & non-profits." The base system includes your choice of design, selection of modules (website features to add functionality to your site), secure access to your site anytime, anywhere, easy-to-use tools to manage your website, unlimited access to your site for updates & additions, a professional website hosting account, email accounts, a web statistics package, domain name, and training & support from NGM's experienced staff.
